Returns From Maui.

(Special Correspondence.)

MAUI, Nov. 10.—Election day, the 6th, passed most quietly on Maui and a full vote of registered electors was polled. The following returns tell the story of the independent victory, to the disgust of many Republicans who are complaining of false promises, broken faith, etc.:

Elected—F. W. Beckley (Independent), J. K. Hihio (Independent), Sol. Kawahoa (Independent), C. H. Dickey (Republican), G. P. Kaulimakaole (Independent), J. Ahuli (Independent).

By consulting the above schedule it will be seen that 1,688 votes were counted and hence that 369 was the number of registered voters who either stayed away from the polls or whose ballots were discarded. The highest vote polled by an Independent was 750 for F. W. Beckley; by a Republican was 759 for H. P. Baldwin, and by a Democrat was 385 for Prince David.

Neither Wilcox nor Parker polled the full strength of their respective tickets. The banner Republican precincts were the Tenth (Hakapuapoko), which gave Parker 112, David 47, and Wilcox 35; and the Seventh Precinct (Kahulu), which gave Parker 54, David 11, and Wilcox 5. H. P. Baldwin ran 25 votes ahead of Parker in the Tenth Precinct. The banner Democratic precinct was the Fifth (Kauanali), where David received 47 votes, Wilcox 22 and Parker 14. Walluku was the stronghold of the Independents.

MAUI ELECTION NOTES.

On the recent trip of the Waiwalele to Maui, just a day or two before the election, the report was sent ashore at Lahaina that Wilcox had sold out to the Republicans. The natives, however, did not accept the news, and the rapid Independents said at their meetings, the "Democrats lie like—" D. H. Kahaulio, the Republican candidate on the Maui Representative ticket, suffered the loss of many votes by the resemblance of the initials of his name to those of his brother, D. K. Kahaulio, who was an Independent candidate. At Lahaina the Independent brother stood around the polls button-holing every one and telling them not to vote for D. H. Kahaulio because "he is my brother and a Republican." D. H. lost. Matt McCann, Mayor of Lahaina, states that there is every chance to bring action for fraud against the election inspectors at Lahaina for the loose manner in which they conducted the voting. D. K. Kahaulio, the Independent candidate, came very near being arrested by McCann, who had a warrant sworn out for him but finally concluded not to use it. It seems that a native had made up his mind to vote for him and was about to put it forward into the inspector's hand when Kahaulio said, "Wait, you haven't folded your ballot right." He reached forward, took the ballot out of the man's hand, and with his thumb and forefinger spread the ballot open far enough to see how it was marked. Several protests were made against this action. Clark, an Independent, made speeches in the room where the booths and ballot boxes were placed and endeavored to influence the men in the booths as to how their tickets should be marked.

AT THE SETTLEMENT.

D. H. Kahaulio of Maui says that at the leper settlement the polls closed leaving 120 voters unable to cast their ballots. Two hundred and fifteen votes were deposited in the boxes.

WAS ELECTION AN ERROR?

Senator-elect A. G. M. Robertson raises a point in regard to the recent election. He says there is a possibility that no Delegate was to be elected to the Fifty-sixth Congress—only for the Fifty-seventh Congress—and that President McKinley may make such an announcement when the matter is brought to his attention. Mr. Robertson says the intention may have been for the people of Hawaii to elect a Legislature at the recent election, which would of itself have provided laws for the election of a Delegate to Congress. In this event the election of a Delegate to Congress may have been superfluous and the election on November 6 of a Delegate an error.

WHITE WILCOX'S SECRETARY.

William J. White, the Independent Senator-elect from Maui, has resigned as such in order to accompany Robert W. Wilcox to Washington as the latter's secretary. The announcement was made by White personally and he is making his preparations accordingly. There is very little salary attached to the secretaryship to Congress. The secretary to a Senator is given a salary of $100 a month. A Representative or Delegate is allowed $100 a month for all manner of incidental expenses, including clerk hire. As no many of his office expenses will have to come out of the $100 it will be seen that there is very little left for the salary which White expects to get. The resignation of White means another election for Senator. The Independents will nominate D. K. Kahaulio. In that event the Republicans and the Democrats are determined that the result will be entirely different from that just gone by, and will join forces against the Independents. The foregoing news was brought to Honolulu by Matt McCann of Lahaina.

Hawaii Elections.

HILO, Hawaii, Nov. 10.—The Hilo Tribune says: "A little ripple from the great sea of American politics reached out across the Pacific and touched the shores of Hawaii, and the free and independent voter of this newly created Territory girded up his loins and went forth to express his opinion at the polls of government in general and of the Government of Hawaii in particular."

The polls opened promptly at 8 o'clock a. m., that is the voter who slept in the Courthouse yard was able to cast his ballot at 8:30, if he stood No. 1 in the procession, "promptly" being taken in its tropical interpretation, which is "any old time."

Immediately dense masses of humanity gathered at the portals, like the spirits of the departed at the gates of H—(n) (d), or ticket purchasers at the box office of a Sapho troupe. This threatened a breach of the peace, because all the voters were not of the same party, and each would naturally strive to be first; in the second place it showed a most unseemly eagerness to vote, which is a sign of discontent and therefore obnoxious to the police, who by this time were wide awake, not having been disturbed during the night.

The capacity of this department of the executive for crushing incipient mobs of peaceful citizens was here exemplified. That an American citizen, who perhaps had paid $7.50 for the privilege of having "something to say," should be crushed to the thickness and consistency of a cancelled postage stamp while waiting for his lawful right was intolerable. Speedily the agitation was formed into line, the best bluffers being allowed to head the procession, while the weaker brethren were relegated to the rear. Thus was harmony brought out of chaos by a fictitious application of the doctrine of the survival of the fittest; though upon what principle the Sheriff's department lays its hand upon two men equally distant from the polls and leaves one where he is and makes the other rear corporal of a line one hundred yards long, the reporter knoweth not; it looks extremely like interfering with the franchise, which is a rather ticklish right to monkey with.

LOEBENSTEIN WILL CONTEST NICH. RUSSELL'S ELECTION

A. B. LOEBENSTEIN, who was a candidate for the Senate on Hawaii, is in Honolulu and will file a protest against the issuing of a certificate of election to Nicholas Russell, of Oahu. The protest in full is as follows:

Hilo, Hawaii, Territory of Hawaii, Nov. 7, 1900.

To L. A. Andrews, Sheriff of Hawaii.

Sir: I, the undersigned, a citizen and elector of South Hilo, Island and Territory of Hawaii, enter this, my formal protest to the issuing of a certificate of election, to one Nicholas Russell, of Oahu, Hawaii Island, as a Senator for said Island.

My reason for the same being that the name of the said Nicholas Russell was improperly placed upon the ballot; that the petition upon which his name was placed upon the ballot did not contain the statutory names of duly qualified electors and voters as required by law; that the said petition contains a list of twenty-six names, as follows: O. T. Shipman, S. Pail, John K. Walchua, W. H. Smith, Cyril O. Smith, George Jakins, J. H. Reinhardt, John H. Marlin, W. C. Borden, T. J. Ryan, J. Brown, A. W. Todd, W. Geo. Kaihenui, J. E. Staples, W. von Graevemeyer, H. E. Kelsey, H. L. Shaw, Ruela, W. Nicolls, L. A. Davis, Dan Kaihenui, J. S. Janeway, J. N. Wood, John N. Morton, A. W. Richardson, Dan Kaonohi.

On said list of twenty-six names there appear the names of other than duly qualified voters, as follows: W. von Graevemeyer, Cyril O. Smith, Ruela, L. A. Davis, John H. Marlin, leaving but twenty-one names of duly qualified voters.

That a statement of said facts was by me duly presented to the Board of Inspectors of Election of this, the Second Precinct, First District, Island of Hawaii, prior to the taking of votes to the polls, and such statement of facts appears as a protest in the record of proceedings of the said Board.

I therefore maintain that the name of Nicholas Russell, not being legally upon the ballot, all votes cast for him are lost.

Yours truly,
A. B. LOEBENSTEIN.

(ADVERTISER NOV. 7.)

However, the recalcitrant were brow-beaten into quiescence, and the line thus formed gradually grew larger, winding up the mountain and through Olua, until a man with a powerful telescope could discern at the extreme end Waldron standing on the porch of the Volcano House, with his umbrella in his hand, ready to take one pace to the front, as a forward movement of the line should show that the inspectors of election had awakened a slumberer in one of the booths, dragged him out, and made place for another.

So the day dragged on, enlivened by occasional occurrences of passing interest as the members of the procession gradually felt themselves passing from vigorous youth to venerable, though gray-haired and decrepit old age, and feared they might be called to their long home before they should reach the ballot box, the goal of their endeavors. Occasionally a thrifty individual of the Polynesian family would exchange his place in the line, for a consideration with some rank outsider, a haole, with more money than leisure. The vendor would then retire to the end of the procession and slowly begin again his journey Meccanward. Thus did the wise provision of the police encourage political morality and enable the citizen to turn an honest penny by selling that which he never legally possessed.

Healers for the various candidates rushed at intervals up and down the line exhorting the patient would-be voter to stand firm for Parker, Wilcox or Kawananakoa, as the case might be, and rather suffer martyrdom in a Hilo rain than lose the God-given right to chuck mis-marked ballots into the box.

The pastor of the Halli Church occasionally appeared upon the scene, and uttering a war-whoop, the burden of which was, "Three cheers for De-sha!" he demonstrated that had his luck been equal to his nerve he might not have been elected to stay at home, in spite of his being the raton crop of an unlucky party.

Tempus fugit, not only when you are waiting for a young lady to powder her nose and fix her back hair before going to church, but even when you are waiting for a chance to vote, and 5 o'clock came when only about two-thirds of those enrolled had voted. The inspectors, with the laudable intention of giving everybody a show, in spite of the fact that they had been on duty nine hours and would probably not get the vote counted before morning, decided to keep the polls open a couple of hours longer, have the votes cast in separate boxes and unless such vote should be declared illegal, give those whom a government blunder had delayed, a chance. Over a hundred voted after this.

Counting commenced shortly after 7 o'clock, and about this time the returns from the other precincts began to come in. Papakou led off with a hair-raising Wilcox majority, as given in the tabulated report above. The final outcome would seem to prove that as goes Papakou so goes the Island. The rest of the district northward to Kukuhae showed well for the Republican ticket, but the last named place covered this organization with hoar frost.
